

Curriculum vitae

Elpida K. Vogli

Professor of Modern Greek History,

email: evogli@hs.duth.gr

Websites: <http://duth.academia.edu/ElpidaVogli>

My research interests are divided into three main areas. First, I focus on topics related to citizenship, national and gender identities, nationalism, state building, diaspora policies, migration, and social and political rights. I also have a scholarly interest in political and social history, particularly the historical development of the family institution. Second, my research focuses on historiography, methodology, and theoretical frameworks within the fields of history, the humanities, and the social sciences. The third and most recent area of my research involves the development of collective perceptions in modern society, the motivations behind communication and media, including advertising and social media, and the interaction between cinema, television, and history.
